CHECK OUT THE OTHER CRC OFFICES!

The NACC is one of seven offices in the cluster of Cultural Resource Centers (CRC’s) that serve all students at CSU. To recognize intersectionality and increase coalition building, we want to ensure that student engage with the other CRC offices and gain as many resources as possible in their time here at CSU.

NATIVE AMERICAN FACULTY & STAFF

Not only does the NACC offer programming and resources through our office, but we are also proud to have a list of Native faculty and staff that are here to help students at their time at CSU. They serve across a variety of departments but are all here to help students in whatever way they can. To see our list, please follow the provided link:

PROGRAMMING THROUGH OUR OFFICE

>>> EAGLE FEATHER TUTORING PROGRAM

Starting the second week of classes, all students across campus will have access to our in-person, free tutoring program. We offer a variety of courses, covering classes such as CHEM 111, LIFE 102, and even CO 150. We also cover most gen-ed classes that students will take in their first years at CSU. Depending on our tutors, we also offer tutoring in more specialized areas, such as physics and microbiology. Our full schedule, including offered classes for tutoring, is available on our website and is also posted in our office.

>>> NORTH STAR PEER MENTORING

Like other CRC offices, the NACC has a peer mentoring program. Our peer mentors are upper-class Native American/Indigenous students at CSU who are hired to serve as peer mentors for incoming Native American CSU students. As mentors, they complete training to learn about resources and how to become leaders in the Native/Indigenous community at CSU to help others in their transitions to campus.

AMERICAN INDIAN SCIENCE & ENGINEERING SOCIETY

AISES is one of the major student organizations for Native students at CSU. Even though the national organization is geared towards those that are in STEM-focused majors, we welcome students of all majors to join. The organization hosts various academic and culturally based programming, including the annual powwow for Native American Heritage Month.

>>> NATIVE WOMEN’S CIRCLE

Native Women’s Circle is a social-cultural group program through the Native American Cultural Center that nurtures group, individual, and cultural support for all students! All gender identities are welcome! In the past, the Native Women’s Circle has participated in social and cultural events together and will continue to do so in person this fall.
The CSU Health Network offers multi-cultural counseling services, designed for students who have been historically underrepresented and aims to reduce borders to accessing counseling services. There are many identity-specific services and resources that can support your emotional health and wellness. Visit the health network website for more information and hours down below: health.colostate.edu/multicultural-counseling-services

The victim assistance team provides confidential support and advocacy to CSU students, family, and friends who have experienced dating/domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking on/off campus. Trained Victim Advocates are available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year to provide emotional support and information for victims of all genders to cope with the physical, psychological, and legal aftermath from interpersonal violence.

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as food stamps, can help eligible low-income families and individuals stretch their food budget! SNAP provides monthly supplemental income for food purchases for about 1 in 10 Coloradans, including hard-working families, children, students, seniors, veterans and those who are disabled. SNAP is a federal entitlement program, which means that granting one individual benefits will not take away from others who are eligible. If you and your family are in need, consider applying!
